Date: February 10, 2016

Re: IRB Code #: 16-14

IRB Title: Texting and Romantic Relationships

Study Review: Expedited

Expiration Date: February 09, 2017

The above-referenced human-subjects research project was APPROVED by the Pace University Institutional Review Board (IRB) for the period of February 10, 2016 through February 09, 2017.

Approval is limited to the activities described in the approved Protocol Narrative. Additional conditions for the general conduct of human-subjects research are detailed on the Office of Sponsored Research website (<http://www.pace.edu/provost/information-faculty-0/pace-university-institutional-review-board-irb-0>).

Federal regulations require that all research be reviewed at least annually. It is the Principal Investigator's responsibility to obtain review and continued approval 30 days before the expiration date of the protocol. If there is a lapse in approval, you may not continue any research activity (i.e. enroll participants, engage in study procedures, or analyze identifiable data) until the IRB renewal is reviewed and approved.

Please contact the IRB when you need to:

- Renew your project (please submit a continuing approval form at least 30 days prior to expiration);
- Submit a final report when the project is completed;
- Revise any aspect of the approved protocol. All changes (e.g., change in procedure, personnel, recruitment materials, etc.) must be prospectively reviewed and approved by the IRB; or
- Report any unanticipated problems involving risk to subjects or any serious adverse events.

Please send all communication to paceirb@pace.edu; all forms and additional information can be found on the Pace IRB website.

Thank you for your continuing cooperation, and best of luck with your research!

Sincerely,

Lin J. Drury, Ph.D.

Co-Chair of Institutional Review Board
